THE WESTWARD MOVEMENT

The first two decades of the 19th Century saw the family move in different directions. The general distribution of these eight children of Jacob Moak (1.1) were as follows:

1.1.1 Jacob Moak married Rachael Sanders, moved to Robertson County, Tenn., and died there in 1822. Some of his children moved on to Illinois.
1.1.2 Sarah Moak married William Perry, moved to Robertson County, Tenn., and was living there as late as 1830.
1.1.3 Sussanah Moak married Thomas Hunter, moved to Robertson County, Tenn., and was living there as late as 1830.

Thus the first three children moved to Tennessee about 1800.

1.1.4 Elizabeth Moak married William Price, moved to Pike County, Miss., and died there.
1.1.5 Andrew Moak married Catherine Dominey, moved to Amite County, Miss.(later Pike and still later Lincoln) and died there.
1.1.6 Mary Moak married Robert Price, moved to Miss. and died there.

The second three children, therefore, moved to Mississippi.

1.1.7 Emanuel Moak continued in Richland County and died there in 1820. His son Jacob (1.1.7.1) moved to Miss. and died there.
1.1.8 John Moak continued in South Carolina, presumably dying there between 1840 and 1850.

It was only shortly before this work was published that information concerning the migration to Robertson County, Tenn., came to light. In view of the recency of this discovery, this work is principally concerned with the last five children of Jacob Moak (1.1). Perhaps at some future date, a revised edition will permit full development of the story for the first three.

In this chapter, we are principally concerned with the movement to Mississippi of three of the children and one grandchild of Jacob Moak (1.1).

ON TO MISSISSIPPI

Family records do not reflect the specific motivation for the move to Miss. Nor do the records set down the exact conditions under which the movement took place. Accordingly we are obliged to rely upon a combination of oral stories handed down on a hand to mouth basis, coupled with some general information regarding the reasons for migration to the west.

CHAPTER 8

THE MISSISSIPPI COUNTIES OF AMITE, PIKE, LAWRENCE AND LINCOLN

Many persons are confused by the intermittent references in source data to these counties. Moreover, insofar as our family is concerned, there is also confusion at times with Marion County.

Prior to the formation of Pike County in 1816, almost all of the territory in which our ancestors settled was in Amite County. A small portion of the settlers were in Lawrence County which lay to the North.

By studying the maps on the following page the reader can see how the boundaries were changed from time to time as new counties were created. From 1816 to 1870, the boundary between Pike County and Lawrence County ran directly through Bogue Chitto. When Lincoln County was formed in 1870, the present boundaries in which most of the Moak family is interested became stabilized as it is today.

Accordingly, we find Andrew Moak in Amite County in 1812. Later some references are to Pike County. After 1870, most of the references are to Lincoln County. All of this arises from the fact that the same land was incorporated in these different counties as the present county system of Mississippi was developed.

In the text of Part II, county name designations are used which were contemporary to the time covered by the occurrence. Thus a person may be reported as born in Amite County and died in Lincoln County, although he was in fact born and died in the same house--if the birth occurred prior to 1816 and the death after 1870.

Part II

CHAPTER 5

THE FAMILY OF ANDREW MOAK (1782-1855)

We have already made considerable reference to Andrew Moak in Part I, Chapter 7. This will not be repeated here.

Andrew Moak was born March 1, 1782, in Richland County, South Carolina, first married about 1803, to Catherine Dominey. Readers are directed to Part I for a discussion of the Dominey Family.

When Andrew Moak secured his passport on November 1, 1811, he already had three children. His wife, these children and an unidentified Miss Patsy Alexander, accompanied him to Mississippi.

It was to a spot just southeast of the present town of Norfield, Miss., in what is now Lincoln County, that he came. At that time this territory was in Amite County, in 1816 it was incorporated into the newly formed Pike County, and in 1870 into the present Lincoln County.*

The route they traveled is not known, however, it is presumed that they came along the "Three Chop Trail." The approximate route of this trail is shown on Map - -. The mode of travel is not known; however, there is an off-repeated tradition in the family that Andrew brought his belongings from South Carolina to Mississippi in a barrel through which a shaft had been driven and the horse hitched to this odd conveyance. If this be true, then the said barrel must have indeed been sturdy when one considers the number of revolutions which it would have to make on such a long journey.

Another version of family history says that he brought his family and a minimum of belongings on his first trip. This version states that he then returned to Richland County and by wagon then brought the remainder of his belongings. The absence of a second passport would throw some doubt on this assertion; however, many records have been lost so no conclusive facts are known.

The new land to which Andrew Moak came was a part of the Mississippi Territory which had been organized in 1798. Apparently he first settled upon land without benefit of a formal grant.

The land grants in the name of Andrew Moak (1.1.5) may well have included some in the name of his son (1.1.5.6), particularly during the 1850's. No distinguishing indications were noted in the records examined. For the purposes here, the grants are assumed to all have been to Andrew Moak (1.1.5). They were:

*See Part I, Chapter 8 and Map IV. Actually, it was in Lawrence County territory but all records say "Amite County."

This portion of Mississippi, particularly in the bottom lands was quite fertile, and Andrew Moak chose some good lands on which to settle. Upon arrival, he erected a log cabin which consisted of one large room with an attic sleeping space and an adjoining room, probably used as a kitchen. At a later date a third room was added.

The cabin was still standing in ruins when this author first visited the site in 1944. On a more recent visit, almost all of the logs had been torn down and many of them carted away as firewood.

Within a short time of the date on which Andrew Moak took up residence in Amite County, the War of 1812 broke out.

In this war, Andrew Moak appears to have had three periods of service:*

a. August 25 to November 1813. He enlisted in the 1st Regiment of Mississippi Volunteers at Topisaw and was discharged at Magee's Creek. Lt. John Nixon was in command.
b. From April 10 to October 7, 1814, he served as a draftee in Capt. Spencer's Company of the 13th Regiment of Mississippi Territory Militia.
c. Again on January 6, 1815, he enlisted for a three month period of service in Captain David Cleveland's Company of the 13th Regiment.

This author has been advised that the Lincoln County Advertiser (Miss.) in issue of October 8, 1959, carried an article stating that Andrew Moak was a lieutenant in Capt. Spencer's Company, but he has not be able to verify the source upon which this statement is made.

*Miss. Territory in War of 1812. Book F. p. 166; Publications of Missippi Historical Society, IV, p. 170 and p. 203; and records in National Archives, Washington, D.C.

The first of these two periods of service was in connection with the war with the Creek Indians. A full account of this and other events with which Miss. troops were concerned in the War of 1812 can be obtained from Rowland's extensive statement on this subject.

The second period of service was in connection with the British invasion of the Gulf Coast, culminating in the Battle of New Orleans on January 8, 1815.

The 1815 service was in conjunction with the British invasion late in 1814, first of the Mississippi Gulf Coast and of Louisiana. They operated from a base in Pensacola, Florida, and late in 1814 it became apparent that they planned an invasion of Louisiana through New Orleans.

As a part of the defense against this British invasion, military authorities organized militia forces and sent them to the Gulf Coast. The records of the Old War Section of the National Archives in Washington, D.C., show that Andrew Moak enlisted as a private in Captain David Cleveland's Company of the 13th Regiment of the Mississippi Territory Militia, War of 1812. The enlistment is dated January 6, 1815, and due to the success of the American troops under General Jackson in the Battle of New Orleans on January 8, 1815, followed shortly by word that a treaty of peace which had been executed in Europe late in December 1814, the Company was disbanded on February 5, 1815, and Andrew Moak was discharged.

For his month's service, he was paid $8.00. Apparently the troop mobilized at the Marion County Court House in Liberty, Miss. No record of just where the troops were stationed in the month of service has been located.

As a result of this service, all descendants of Andrew Moak who have an interest in such matters are entitled to membership in any society of the sons or daughters of the War of 1812. One of the descendants was successful in securing an official marker for the grave of Andrew Moak which is situated on a plot immediately adjacent to the original Moak homestead on Moak's Creek in Pike County. (Subsequently the marker was removed to Moak's Creek Church Cemetery.)

To return to the story of Andrew Moak, we find him listed as the head of his family in the U.S. Census of Pike County for the years 1820, 1840 and 1850. The entries are as follows:

1820	0-10	10-16	16-26	26-45
Males	2 Henry Andrew, Jr.	2 Middleton Jacob	--	1 Andrew, Sr.
Females	1 Margaret	1	1 Mariah	1 Catherine (Dominey) Moak

The female in the age 10-16 bracket is not identified.

The 1830 Census for Pike County is missing, and there is no entry for the Moak family in either Lawrence or Amite counties.

The 1840 Census identified only the heads of households and gives numbers according to age brackets. The numbers listed below are according to the census. The names represent the author's allocation of the children. This means that the six oldest children had married and no longer lived with Andrew in 1840.

1840	0-5	5-10	10-15	15-20	40-50	50-60
Males	1 Martin	4 Laborn Joseph Zachariah Alexander	1 James	1 John	1	1 Andrew, Sr.
Females	-	1 Martha	1 Elizabeth	2 Mary Catherine	1 Sussanah Dominey, his second wife

It is appropriate to note that the differentials in age for Andrew and his wife are similar to those in the 1820 Census between Andrew and the unidentified frmale in that census, which gives credence to the believe that Sussanah Dominey was living in that household at that time.

1850 CENSUS

This is the first federal census in which the full membership of a family is listed, along with their sex, ages, and state of birth. The entry for 1850 for Andrew Moak in the Pike County Census is as follows:

Andrew Moak, Sr., aged 68, born in S.C.
Zachariah, son, aged 20, born in Miss.
Labon, son, aged 18, born in Miss.
Joel, son, aged 16, born in Miss.
Martha, daughter, aged 15, born in Miss.
Martin, son, aged 12, born in Miss.

THE WIVES OF ANDREW MOAK (M I.1.5)

As has been stated earlier in this work, Andrew Moak married twice and, quite unusually, married sisters. His first wife was Cathering Dominey who died on July 18, 1821 after having borne him seven children--four sons and three daughters--during a married life which lasted little more than 17 years.

Andrew Moak then promptly, on December 25, 1821, married his first wife's sister, Sussanah Dominey. She was born November 18, 1790, in Richland Co., S.C. Their first child was born only eight months later. This union lasted for about 19 years and from it came seven additional sons and three daughters. Thus when Susan Dominey Moak died on January 16, 1841, Andrew Moak was the father of seventeen children. He was then almost sixty years of age and did not again marry.

The most remarkable thing is that all 17 lived to adulthood. Not only this, but sixteen of the seventeen married and most of whom produced one or more children--to a total of more than 120 grandchildren according to the sources which your author has been able to uncover.

Our further information concerning Andrew Moak is limited. We note from the records of the Mississippi Baptist Association, as reported by Casey,* that Andrew Moak was a delegate to the Mississippi Baptist Association from the Friendship Baptist Church in the meetings of October 15, 1836, and September 30, 1842.

Andrew Moak died on March 1, 1855, and as noted earlier, he was buried in the family plot adjacent to his home.

The children of Andrew Moak (1.1.5) by his first marriage to Catherine Dominey were:

* 1. Mariah Moak
* 2. Jacob Moak
* 3. Middleton M. Moak, Sr.
* 4. Henry Franklin Moak
* 5. Margaret Moak
* 6. Andrew Moak, Jr.
* 7. Catherine Moak

In his second marriage on December 25, 1821, to Sussanah Dominey, his children were:

* 8. John Moak
* 9. Mary A. Moak
*10. Elizabeth Moak
*11. James Moak
*12. Alexander Moak
*13. Zachariah Moak
*14. Laban Moak
*15. Joel Moak
*16. Martha Moak
17. Martin Moak, born about 1838, and killed in the Civil War in 1862. Family information indicates that he was not married and that his death occured at the Battle of Shiloh.

*Casey, II, p. 148 and p. 156.

Between 1860 and 1863, Jane Coward died and Middleton then married the final
1 time. This wife was Matilda J. "Tildy" Rushing who was born in Mississippi in 1834. It appears that fate had determined that five would be the magic number for again Middleton had five children:

*16. Sarah
*17. Martha Jane
*18. Jacob A.
*19. Missouri E.
*20. John H.

Middleton Moak, Sr., thus became the parent of the largest number of children known to have been born to any member of the Moak family. The runner-up was his father who had a mere seventeen.

Middleton was about sixty-two years of age when his youngest child was born--almost forty years after the birth of the oldest. Middleton Moak died on April 5, 1875, in Pike County, Missouri. Following his death, his fourth wife, who at that time was about 39 years of age, married William Templeton (Ca 1854 -) and is reported to have had additional children by him but your author has no record of them.

Middleton was a farmer and apparently had fairly extensive land holdings about five miles west of Norfield, Mississippi. The house in which he lived is still standing and is built of logs, subsequently covered by siding. Among the lands he acquired as original owner, between 1832 and 1854, were 440 acres in Sections 7, 17, and 18 of R5N, T7E.

.1 Margaret Moak born about 1830 appears to have been married twice. First to - - - - King and then to - - - - Price. These marriages occured after 1850 as she was living in the home of her father unmarried at that time. Information concerning her life and children is lacking.

.2 Catherine Moak (Ca 1832 -). No information available beyond her residence with her father in 1850. Some sources report that she married a Gatlin.

.3 Nancy Moak born in Pike County on March 23, 1833 married Joel Moak (1.1.2.15). Doubtless this marriage to her half-uncle was the scandal of the day and your author has been told that there was much tongue wagging. Inasmuch as this work reports descendants under the male line where there is an inter-marriage of Moak relatives, the reader will refer to 1.1.5.15 for further information.

3.4 Louise Moak, or perhaps Anita Louise Moak was born about 1834 and was married to Isaac Davis. No record of this family is available.

3.5 Priscilla Moak born about 1837 was married to Henry D. Clark but we have no record of this family.

3.6 Thomas Asa (sometimes Acie) Moak was born in Pike County on December 9, 1839. We know little of his childhood but the record of his service in the Confederate Army is filed in Washington, D. C. in the National Archives. He served as a private in Captain J. M. Brister's Company of Mississippi

JONES-SEAMAN

My Raymond C. Jones of Panama City, Fla., and Miss Myrtis Vermell Seaman of Moss Point, were married on December 26, 1934, at the Baptist pastorium in Moss Point, Rev. John F. Brock officiating. The bride was attended by Miss Velma Faulkner of Moss Point as maid of honor, while the groom's best man was Mr. Sylvanus Owens of Panama City. Only the members of the bride's family were present to witness the interesting ceremony.

The bride was becomingly gowned in a garnet crepe "Romaine" with accessories to match. She is the daughter of Mr. C. P. Seaman of East Moss Point, and was a graduate of the Moss Point High school of the class of 1934. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Jones of Moss Point, but is now living in Panama City, where he is employed by the Southern Kraft Corporation.

The young folks will make their home in Panama City, and have the best wishes of many friends for a happy married life.

MOAK-CUNNINGHAM

Mr. Sheridan Moak and Miss Henrietta Cunningham were quietly married Tuesday, January 1, 1935, at 2:00 p. m., at the home of the bride's parents, Rev. N. S. Loftus performing the solemn ceremony.

Mr. Moak is the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Moak of Hurley, and the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Cunningham of Big Point. All wish the young couple a long and happy married life.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER TO BRIDE OF HOLIDAY WEEK

A miscellaneous shower was given at the home of Mrs. C. P. Seaman on Thursday by Mrs. A. L. Wilkerson and Mrs. Horace Byrd, in honor of Mrs. Raymond C. Jones (Miss Myrtis Seaman), a bride of Christmas week.

As the guests arrived they were received by Mrs. Seaman and shown the bride's book, where all took pleasure in registering.

The receiving line consisted of Mrs. Raymond C. Jones, Mrs. W. W. Jones, mother of the groom, and Mrs. A. F. Wilkerson and Mrs. Horace Byrd, sisters of the bride. After congratulations were extended the wedding march was played by Miss Gladys Hulbert, and little Blanche Simmons, a niece of the bride, entered the living room drawing a little wagon laden with beautiful and useful gifts for the bride, which were opened and admired. During the inspection of the gifts Miss Myrtis Falls played the piano and Miss Doris Elder sang sweetly "I Love You Truly," and "At Dawning."

Delicious ice cream and cake were served to about fifty guests by Mrs. Seaman, assisted by Mrs. Homer Miller, Miss Eggie Seaman and Mrs. A. A. Delmas.

The guests departed leaving their best wishes for the bride's future happiness.

Navy Units' Sale To Begin Today

Office Is Established To Take Applications

Permanent government-owned housing in Pascagoula goes on sale today.

Robert H. Chafin, local PHA manager, said Carl H. Johnson, Atlanta sales officer, and a staff of workers have set up headquarters in the 10th Street housing office to handle sale of the 602 permanent houses.

For 30 days starting today, applications will be accepted from occupants only.

The following conditions will govern sales, Chafin said.

PRICES: Single units from $3700 to $4200, depending on location and condition. Duplex buildings containing one two-bedroom and one three-bedroom unit, $575... Convent street units of steel-construction, $4250.

TERMS: $50 deposit must be made with application for purchase of a single unit, and $100 for duplex. Deposit will apply on down payment when sale is closed.

FINANCING: Ten% of purchase price required as down payment, with balance payable over a term of 15 years at 5% interest.

Financing will be handled by PHA with the only closing fee to be appropriate share of taxes for the present year, and the furnishing of a three-year fire and extended coverage insurance policy.

Purchaser must also pay for recording of deed of trust and cost of obtaining a credit report. Purchaser will have option of paying cash or making other financial arrangements if desired.

DUPLEX BUILDINGS: If occupied by two veterans and both apply to purchase, they will have to draw lots to decide. If occupied by a veteran and a non-veteran the veteran will be given the choice.

If occupied by two non-veterans they will have to draw lots. Length of occupancy will not be considered.

Chafin said veteran status will not apply to veterans of World War I.

2 Yard Workers Burned To Death At Pas Tuesday

Two workers were burned to death Tuesday morning while working aboard a Navy icebreaker under construction at Ingalls.

Dead are welder-burner Malcolm M. Moak, 43, 325 West Lincoln, Pascagoula, and shipfitter Eugene Butler, 34, of Seminary.

Because the two men were welding alone in a wing tank aboard the craft, Ingalls officials said the cause of the fatal fire may never be determined.

Joseph Campbell, assistant to executive vice president W. R. Guest, said the fire may have been started from an accumulation of oxygen in the tank.

Four workers in an adjoining compartment—A. B. Rouse, O. F. Bass, L. F. Jones and N. S. Fountain—noticed smoke pouring from the tank manhole about 11:15 a.m.

They immediately notified the yard fire department and inserted a suction tube into the tank to draw off smoke.

The bodies, described by coroner James Ira Grimsley as "very badly burned," were removed by yard fire chief A. M. Pelham.

It was the first fatality at Ingalls since November, 1953.

A coroner's jury ruled that the actual cause of death in both cases was asphyxiation. Members of the jury were W.

The contract will reduce layoffs which were scheduled to start shortly among crafts employed on the building ways, said Lanier.

"This contract will extend the construction program in the yard well into 1956," Lanier said, "and will provide employment for many workers who would otherwise have been subject to early layoff."

Guest said the contract will mean additional payrolls in excess of $8 million for Ingalls workers.

"Last year the yard paid out approximately $16 million in wages and salaries," Guest said. "We probably won't reach quite that figure this year, but this contract will aid materially in keeping it at a high level.

"The $8-million in additional payrolls will, of course, be spread out over the construction period of the two new vessels," he added.

Guest also said Ingalls would bid on construction of two ammunition supply ships for the Navy, on which bids will be asked soon.

The hull design will be basically the same as that of the two refrigerator ships for which the yard won a construction contract some months ago.
